

La Torre

La Torre (built in 1850) pre-dates the construction of the family's summer residence. It used to serve as a shelter for workers when it rained and it was here that they used to eat. In the evening they would pull out the racks of drying figs and cook bread and focaccia in the adjoining wood fired oven. La Torre is equipped with kitchenette and an alcove with a fireplace. The windows look out over the garden. Ideal for a couple with a child; can accommodate up to four people.
